

CHELSEA MICHNER

Dancer, Instructor and Choreographer

Contemporary

Chelsea started dancing at the age of 3 in Colorado. By the time she was 17 she was accepted to The EDGE Performing Arts Center Scholarship Program. She is well versed in tap, jazz, ballet, hip hop, lyrical, theatre, and contemporary. She now teaches basic jazz and jazz 2 at The EDGE as well as multiple studios in the L.A. area. She has been seen on stage many times working for choreographers such as Tabitha and Napoleon Umo, Malaya, Nichelle Bane, Scott Hislop, Ryan Heffington, Denise Leitner, Tiffany and Amanda Leise, and Tessandra Chavez to name a few. She tours frequently as an assistant with L.A. Dance Force and is a member of Unity Dance Ensemble. She can most recently be seen on the television show "Cold Case" and working behind the scenes on a new dance reality show "Dance Machine".
